Regarding claims 1 and 19, while the prior art discloses various multi-axis magnetic field measurement devices located adjacent to the insertion device (See JP404077686, JP07139902 and JP404190598), the prior art does not disclose a first stage of the measurement device mounted on the insertion device, in combination with the other features of the claims. The other claims are allowable for the same reasons based on their dependency.
